North Atlantic CoastZone Challenge 2010

CoastZone North Atlantic and SportZone are arranging a unique and extraordinary adventure race in the Faroe Islands in the Atlantic Ocean.

We have worked intensively for the last month to get the organization in place around the first North Atlantic CoastZone Challenge, scheduled to run from the May 11th to May 16th 2010.

CoastZone North Atlantic is situated on the Faroe Islands and has conducted several large events there. So the islands and the possibilities and surroundings are well known to us.

Personally, I just returned from reconnaissance and I am deeply fascinated by the islands, the ocean, the Faroese people and the abundance of possibilities that exist to create an amazing race.

North Atlantic Coast Zone Challenge 2010

Faroe Islands have a fantastic natural environment that offers plenty of challenges. 18 small islands in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean welcome you with surrounded by nature and hospitable people.

The race runs through many of the most fascinating places on the islands such as one of the world's highest foothills Enniberg with 650 m vertical cliff into the water, the highest peak Slættaratindur and swift payment of waterfalls. Additionally the participants will experience boating and swimming between islands as well as biking on narrow roads and in the high passes.

The first day consists of a stage around Torshavn, followed by 3 days with stages (from 10 to 20 hours) around the many islands.

Total distance is expected to be around 300 km in difficult terrain and including a lot of vertical meters.

By designing the race as a stage race, we give participants a chance to combine a fantastic intense competition with a social component and the possibility of interaction with other teams as well as the Faroese people.
